

Summer School

Language, history, culture, and archaeology of Afghanistan

Monday, July 8th - Friday, July 12th, 2024

Castello ducale

Piazza Castello 2, 81037 Sessa Aurunca CE, Italy

INALCO, L'Orientale, Fondation INALCO and ISMEO are delighted to launch the first Summer School on the Cultures of Afghanistan, which will take place in Castello ducale, Piazza Castello 2, 81037 Sessa Aurunca CE, Italy, on 8-12 July 2024.

It will consist of seven modules, taught by specialists in the field:

Archaeology, Art History, and Cultural Heritage – Ancient History – Medieval and Modern History – Literature – Languages, Linguistics, and Orality – History, Political Geography, and Society – Arts, Music, and Performance

The Summer School is open to MA and doctoral level students, and there are no specific prerequisites, only some familiarity with basic historical, linguistic and archaeological terminology connected to Afghan cultures will be assumed.

All participants must make their own travel expenses to Sessa Aurunca. Hospitality (including accommodation, two coffee breaks and a light lunch per day) will be paid for by the organization.

Financial assistance for travel may be provided to students at INALCO's Doctoral school and will be notified to students whose applications have been accepted.

We have some single rooms and further accommodations free of charge. Should you wish to apply, please send an email to ismo@ismo.eu with your CV and a statement (of max 200 words) explaining why you would like to attend this summer school. The deadline for applications is 10 May 2024. The first twelve students who apply will be admitted.

Registration fee: € 100,00; late payment (after 15/6/24) € 120,00
